The Honorable Kevin De Leon
Senate President Pro Tempore
California State Senate
State Capitol, Room 205
Sacramento, CA 95814

Dear Pro Tem De Leon:

I am writing to you in reference to the scheduled visit on July 3, 2017 of Mr. Thanh Hong Vu (a.k.a Vu Hong Thanh), Chairman of the Economic Committee of the National Assembly of Vietnam and his delegation. As the legislative arm of the Communist Party of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, a visit by this delegation is offensive and contradicts our core American values.

In my capacity as a representative of the largest Vietnamese community outside of Vietnam and as someone whose family endured the wrath of this Communist government, I respectfully request that you decline the visit of this delegation and that you ensure that the flag of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam will not be displayed in the Senate Chamber or in any area within the Senate's jurisdiction.

As a member of the National Assembly, Mr. Vu represents a government that continues to blatantly violate the human rights of the Vietnamese people. In recent months, the Vietnamese National Assembly has helped further deteriorate basic human rights by strengthening laws that compel attorneys to report clients for criticizing the national government while turning a blind eye to bloody, thuggish assaults on human rights advocates across Vietnam.

These current patterns demonstrated by the government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam, represented by Mr. Vu, are the same that have been employed for decades. The abuses committed by this regime have been felt abroad and at home. Here in the State of California, many Vietnamese-Americans personally suffered at the hands of this government. Given the atrocities endured by members of the Vietnamese-American community, a prospective visit from a delegation representing the Socialist Republic of Vietnam is deeply troubling. Further exacerbating this situation is the offense to the thousands of U.S. Vietnam War Veterans who fought valiantly to defend Freedom and Democracy.

In closing, the government of the Socialist Republic of Vietnam does not share California's values of Freedom and Democracy and any meeting between this delegation and staff or members of the California State Senate would be an affront to those values. Our motto is "It is a Senator's duty to protect the liberty of the people" and I wholeheartedly will live by this motto.

I thank you in advance for your attention to this sensitive matter and respectfully request notification of your decision. For your reference, I have attached a copy of Amnesty International's Report 2016/17, Subsection on Vietnam. If I can be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to contact me at janet.nguyen@sen.ca.gov or (714) 741-1034.

Respectfully,

Socialist Republic of Viet Nam

Head of state: Tran Dai Quang (replaced Truong Tan Sang in April)

Head of government: Nguyen Xuan Phuc (replaced Nguyen Tan Dung in April)

Severe restrictions on the rights to freedom of expression, of association and of peaceful assembly continued. The media and the judiciary, as well as political and religious institutions, remained under state control. Prisoners of conscience were tortured and otherwise ill-treated, and subjected to unfair trials. Physical attacks against human rights defenders continued, and prominent activists were subjected to daily surveillance and harassment. Peaceful dissidents and government critics were arrested and convicted on national security charges. Demonstrations were repressed, with participants and organizers arrested and tortured. The death penalty was retained.

BACKGROUND

The five-yearly leadership change took place in January at the congress of the Communist Party of Viet Nam. In May, a general election for the 500 seats in the National Assembly was contested by 900 Communist Party members nominated by central or local authorities and 11 independent candidates. Over 100 non-party candidates who attempted to register, including prominent government critics such as Nguyễn Quang A, were disqualified on tenuous administrative grounds. Some were subject to harassment and intimidation.

The implementation of key new laws, scheduled for July, was postponed due to flaws in the amended Penal Code. They included the Criminal Procedure Code, the Law on the Organization of Criminal Investigation Agencies, the Law on the Implementation of Custody and Temporary Detention, and the amended Penal Code itself.

REPRESSION OF DISSENT

Peaceful criticism of government policies continued to be silenced through judicial and extra-legal means. There was extensive surveillance and harassment of activists, including those who demonstrated against the Formosa ecological disaster which affected the lives of an estimated 270,000 people (see below). Attacks against human rights defenders were commonplace.<sup>1</sup>

The authorities continued to use vaguely worded legislation to convict peaceful activists under the national security section of the 1999 Penal Code, in particular: Article 258 “abusing democratic freedoms to infringe upon the interests of the state, the legitimate rights and interests of organizations and/or citizens”; Article 88 “spreading propaganda against the Socialist Republic of Viet Nam”; and Article 79 “carrying out activities aimed at overthrowing the people’s administration”.

In an eight-day period in March, seven activists and government critics were convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for the peaceful expression of their views. They included Nguyễn Hữu Vinh, founder of the popular blog site Anh Ba Sàm, and his assistant Nguyễn Thị Minh Thúy who were convicted under Article 258 and given five- and three-year prison sentences respectively.<sup>2</sup> They had spent nearly two years in pre-trial detention.

Prominent human rights lawyer Nguyễn Văn Đài and his assistant Lê Thu Hà remained in incommunicado detention following their arrest on charges under Article 88 in December 2015.<sup>3</sup>

In October, well-known activist Nguyễn Ngọc Như Quỳnh, known as blogger Mẹ Nấm (Mother Mushroom), was arrested on charges under Article 88 in connection with her blog postings criticizing the government.<sup>4</sup> The Article carries a three- to 20-year prison sentence.

Routine beatings of human rights defenders and their relatives continued. In April, Trần Thị Hồng, wife of prisoner of conscience Pastor Nguyễn Công Chính, was arrested and severely beaten in custody soon after she met with a US delegation visiting Viet Nam.<sup>5</sup>

FREEDOM OF ASSEMBLY

Large peaceful demonstrations over the Formosa disaster were frequent. Weekly demonstrations in urban centres around the country in April and May resulted in mass arrests and attacks against participants by police and individuals in plain clothes believed to be police or working under police orders. Many of those detained were tortured or otherwise ill-treated, including with beatings and the use of electric shocks.<sup>6</sup> Demonstrations continued throughout the year, with those in provinces affected by the Formosa disaster gathering momentum. There were reports that 30,000 people demonstrated in August in Vinh City, Nghệ An province.

LAND DISPUTES

In July, a demonstration of around 400 ethnic minority Ede villagers in Buôn Ma Thuột, Đắk Lắk province protesting against the sale of 100 hectares of the community's ancestral land to a private company was violently repressed by security forces; at least seven demonstrators were arrested and held in incommunicado detention.<sup>7</sup>

In August, land activist Cấn Thị Thêu was convicted under Article 245 of "causing public disorder" by a court in the capital Ha Noi and sentenced to 20 months' imprisonment.<sup>8</sup> She was accused of inciting protests against reclamation of land in Hà Đông district, Ha Noi, by posting photographs online.

TORTURE AND OTHER ILL-TREATMENT

Torture and other ill-treatment, including incommunicado detention, prolonged solitary confinement, beatings, withholding of medical treatment, and punitive transfers between facilities were practised on prisoners of conscience throughout the country.<sup>9</sup> At least 88 prisoners of conscience were held in harsh conditions after unfair trials, some of whom were subjected to beatings, prolonged solitary confinement, deprivation of medical treatment and electric shocks. They included bloggers, labour and land rights activists, political activists, religious followers, members of ethnic groups and advocates for human rights and social justice.

Land rights activist Bùi Thị Minh Hằng, and Hòa Hảo Buddhist Trần Thị Thúy continued to be denied adequate medical treatment since 2015; Catholic activist Đặng Xuân Diệu was held in solitary confinement for prolonged periods and tortured; and Trần Huỳnh Duy Thức had been transferred between several prisons since 2009, apparently as a punishment or to intimidate him.

REFUGEES AND ASYLUM-SEEKERS

In April and May, in two separate cases, eight asylum-seekers among groups intercepted en route to Australia and forcibly returned to Viet Nam were sentenced to between two and four years' imprisonment under Article 275 of the Penal Code for "organizing and/or coercing other persons to flee abroad or to stay abroad illegally".<sup>10</sup>

RIGHT TO AN ADEQUATE STANDARD OF LIVING

An ecological disaster in early April killed huge numbers of fish stocks along the coast of Nghệ An, Hà Tĩnh, Quảng Bình, Quảng Trị and Thừa Thiên-Huế provinces, affecting the livelihoods of 270,000 people. After a two-month investigation, the authorities confirmed allegations by the public that a steel plant owned by the Taiwanese Formosa Plastics Group had caused toxic waste discharges. At the end of June, Formosa publicly acknowledged responsibility and announced that it would provide compensation of US$500 million. In October, a court in Hà Tĩnh rejected 506 cases filed by those affected. The plaintiffs were calling for increased compensation in damages for the impact on their livelihoods.

DEATH PENALTY

Death sentences continued to be imposed, including for drug-related offences. Official statistics remained classified as a state secret. Death sentences were reported in the media. There was no available information about executions.
